Figurines

Other figures said to be by Harry on the Invaluable web site but not attributed to him in [1]:

- From their web site, for sale at Bonhams & Goodman (Sydney 18/05/2009): “A rare original conceptual Doulton model for St. George and the Dragon, by Charles Noke and Harry Tittensor, c1920, with St. George carrying his shield on his left arm and his sword in his right hand, richly decorated in striated tones of sang de boeuf, cobalt, buff and green, artist's signatures to base, inscribed to the interior in pencil “original model presented to A.S. by C.J Noke at the Stoke-on-Trent and dated 1939”, damage to right ear of horse, 36.5 cm long, 35.5 cm high. Reference [1] shows the first version of St George (HN385, HN386, HN1800, HN2067) introduced 1920 by S Thorogood. The production model looks the same as the conceptual model. (The Royal Doulton Animals book [2] gives a name for both the designer and the modeller, maybe this is the distinction here too?).
- From the Invaluable web site: HN95 Europa & the Bull was designed by Harry Tittensor and signed by Tittensor & Noak. Reference [1] says HN95 (first version model 201) was introduced in 1918 and designed by EW Light.
- From the Invaluable web site: HN2042 Owd Willum (sold Cannon & Cannon, S Africa 2006) said to be designed by Harry Tittensor. Reference [1] says designer L Harradine.
- From the Invaluable web site: A rare Royal Doulton figure of Guy Fawkes, H.N. 445, inscribed on the base Guy Fawkes, H. Tittensor, potted by Doulton and Co, HN445 10.5in. blue/ green cloak. See illustration and colour on back cover. Wright-Manley lot 431. Reference [1] says designer CJ Noke.
